

Departmental Awards

Each spring, the Political Science department holds their Honors' Awards ceremony to recognize those students who have been awarded departmental scholarships and awards. There is no application process and the selection is determined by the Undergraduate Studies committee, based on GPA and in some cases financial need. These monetary awards include the Ethan P. Allen Pi Sigma Alpha Award, The Emmett L. Bennett Scholarship, The Eldon Fields Award, The Elizabeth and Carl Gustafson Scholarship, the Allan J. Cigler Academic Enrichment Award, the Joseph P. Harris Dissertation Fellowship, and the Walter Thompson Scholarship. Also included in this ceremony is the selection of students to become members of Pi Sigma Alpha, the Political Science Honor Society.

Recognition is also given to those students that have been awarded monetary support from the Political Science Washington DC Internship Program, and the Brada Family Scholarship. Also recognized are those students selected for the Political Science Departmental Scholarship, made available by Roberto Montoya, given to Political Science ROTC cadets.
